CONFERENCE

THE ANATOMY
OF HATE:
SAVING OUR CHILDREN

NOVEMBER 15 AND 16, 1992

THE NEW YORK CONFERENCE

THE ANATOMY OF HATE: SAVING OUR CHILDREN

Elie Wiesel and Governor Mario M. Cuomo are co-sponsoring a conference, The Anatomy of Hate: Saving Our Children. Under the auspices of The Elie Wiesel Foundation for Humanity, the conference is being held at New York University School of Law, an institution with a history of teaching public service and tolerance through law.

This is the latest conference in a series on The Anatomy of Hate sponsored by the Foundation since its establishment in 1986 by Elie Wiesel after he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. Conferences have been held in Boston, Haifa, Oslo, Paris and Moscow.

The conference brings together, by invitation only, a group of distinguished men and women with varied backgrounds and experience. Participants will discuss the impact of hate on our children and how they can best be helped to overcome it. They will examine how children learn hatred from their community, religious leaders, schoolmates, from books, films, radio, television and newspapers.

The conference is organized into plenary sessions and five seminar workshops which will discuss specific topics: Media and Education; Health, Family and Poverty; Religion, Morality and Violence; Ethnicity and Xenophobia; and The Trauma of Memory.

The goals are simple. Everyone knows there is a crisis of hate. We ask the participants to propose practical solutions for inoculating our children against hate and its effects, and for teaching them tolerance.

The culminating event is a Gala Concert at the Tisch Center for the Arts at the 92nd Street Y. Actor and writer Michael Moriarty will be the evening's host. Pianists Emanuel Ax and Yefim Bronfman and violinist Nadja Salerno-Sonnenberg will perform, along with other artists.

MARIO M. CUOMO

GOVERNOR

STATE OF NEW YORK

The crisis of hate threatening our world gains momentum as it is passed from one generation to another. This cycle must be stopped. Children have always been our hope for the future, but children are losing their own sense of hope. We bring to this conference vast experience and awareness of hate. We also bring the power to help change our society. The materials developed in this forum will be used to reach out to children and those who work with them, to teach tolerance, and give hope. I am proud to be a part of this endeavor with a great humanitarian, Elie Wiesel.

ELIE WIESEL

NOBEL PEACE LAUREATE, 1986

THE ELIE WIESEL FOUNDATION FOR HUMANITY

“I hate you.” Children say that. In frustration, they say that to parents, siblings and playmates. They do not mean it. They do not know the meaning of the word hate. But they will learn. And learn fast. That is what psychologists tell us: a child begins to hate, learns to hate, from age three.

Can we teach that child not to hate? We must. We must teach children the origins and consequences of hate.

Hate knows no frontiers, neither racial nor ethnic. Hate is contagious. Wearing various masks, it can be found among all religious and social communities. Like cancer, if unchecked, it will spread and destroy the body which nurtures and carries it. Ultimately it is both destructive and self-destructive.

Hate inevitably leads to self-hate.

THE ELIE WIESEL FOUNDATION FOR HUMANITY

The Elie Wiesel Foundation for Humanity was established by Elie Wiesel shortly after he was awarded the 1986 Nobel Peace Prize. Rooted in the memory of the Holocaust, the mission of the Foundation is to advance the cause of human rights and peace throughout the world by creating forums for the discussion of urgent ethical and moral issues confronting humankind. Through its programs, the Foundation hopes to awaken and reinforce humane sensibilities, inform public opinion, and influence the thinking of decision-makers.

The Elie Wiesel Foundation Humanity seeks to encourage, among scholars, artists, politicians and humanists, an exchange of ideas and views that transcends academic disciplines, as well as political, cultural and religious viewpoints.

By convening seminars and conferences, the Foundation brings together creative individuals linked by a common concern for the future of humankind for the purpose of discussing the critical issues of our time. The Foundation aims to serve as a catalyst for eliciting new insights and more humane responses to problems which confrontation and conflict have failed to solve.
